Hawking’s Premature Obituary for Philosophy

Professor Prasanta S. Bandyopadhyay
Department of History & Philosophy
Montana State University
http://www.prasantasbandyopadhyay.com/default.html
http://www.prasantasbandyopadhyay.com/Publications/publications.htm

Abstract:

One common refrain in Hawking’s writings is that philosophy is dead. I will evaluate his actual and possible arguments for this claim and conclude that none of them is tenable. This popular talk will emphasize the need for incorporating additional critical reasoning training into current curriculum.

Host:
Yves Idzerda and Rufus Cone

* Refreshments served in the Barnard (EPS) second floor atrium at 3:45 *